History: Rare London taxi, manufactured by Beardmore, a high quality car builder using interesting materials – door panel are ash framed aluminium, wings and roof are glass fibre. Consul engine starts easily and runs sweetly, column change works well and brakes are effective, has had new battery and fuel pump. Paintwork is pretty good throughout, interior is very tidy with good seats. No history to speak of but comes with Beardmore Guide (a practical manual, spare parts guide and history) and an Instruction Book. Would be great for advertising a business.
